Cedar pillow has remarkable orthopedic properties. It is flexible enough to provide firm yet comfortable support to the neck, which results in a deep, restful and healthy sleep.

Produced from a natural material, this pillow does not have any contraindications and prevents accumulation of static electricity.

Cedar nut film is a perfect temperature isolator, and because of this fact, the cedar bedding products keep thermal balance of the body protecting you from hypothermia at cool times and hyperthermia in heat.

The high hydroscopic properties of cedar nut film enable the cedar bedding products to absorb and remove extra moisture from your body. This property and the healthy thermal effect prevent accumulation of extra body fat.

The health benefits of a cedar pillow are immense:

- Antimicrobial properties of the cedar nut film purify the air in your bedroom
- The cedar film is rich in essential oils and phytoncides. The essential oils in the cedar nut film, get absorbed into the blood stream with every breath you take and expand your arteries, which allows for a much quicker blood circulation; and therefore is wonderful for prophylactics of various respiratory and cardiovascular diseases.
- Cedar pillow helps to eliminate depression, stress, and improves performance capabilities
- It lowers fatigue, normalizes arterial blood pressure and eases the symptoms of asthma and allergies.
- The antioxidants found in cedar nuts and cedar nut film, neutralize the toxins produced by your organism. At the body temperature of 36-37 C the antioxidants are easily absorbed by the skin leaving it younger.
- The folk healers believe that the cedar pillow has fantastic healing properties, and when it is placed against a painful bodily area it has the ability to minimize the pain syndrome.
- The bioenergy healers claim that cedar pillow creates natural energetic shell of 1 meter radius that can protect your family from the harmful emissions of computer and home electric appliances.
